Comments: Aside from the fact that Julian area looks remarkably like Scotland and has many Scottish surnames (mostly Lowland) I "surfed in" to get infor on the Knights Templars. Thank you for a most interesting websight. I am supposedly descended from Hugh de Paduinan (often misspelled Padivan) who orginally went to England and whose descendant Sir Peter died at Flodden defending James IV in 1513. My grandfather visited Scotland in the 1930's and tracked the name (Houston) to Northern Ireland (Ulster) in about 1650 and then to Pennsylvania in 1735 and Virginia in 1740-45.

I am very interested in any infomation you have on Hugh De Paduinan or Sir Peter Houston (?). Hugh is listed in the Knights Templar roster as an English knight, but I don't know who or when a de Paduinan (Houston) went to Scotland or any other family info except that they were from Renfrewshire and intermarried with the Cunninghames. Thank you so much for any info you can send or mail to:

Comments: Dear Knights:

I am very impressed to see that the order is still alive, and very strong in Scotland. I am a Knight Templar myself here in Texas. I would love to keep learning from you as well as I do here in my commandery. I sent an email last monday to Chev George Stuart inquiring for the book "History of the Order of Jerusalem from 1118 to 2005". I wish I can visit you soon, and enjoy the unique beauties of Scotland, and Rosslyn Chapel. Fraternaly yours.

Sir Knight, Alberto Roguer

Comments: Barbara and I would like to thank the SKT Commandery of Jacques de Molay for their most kind hospitality at the investiture in Rosslyn Chapel and at ensuing dinner at Roslin Hotel.

It's hard to sum up in a few words the positive feelings in our hearts after this pleasant occurrence, but the genuine, uplifting and warm smile of Commander George Stewart possibly embodies the spirit of such an amazing event which we had the privilege and joy to share with the lovely and remarkable persons attending this unique experience.

Special thanks to our "Patron" and "Guide" over this short but intense weekend in Bonnie Scotland, Major Ronald Sinclair, for his invaluable and generous help and assistance and...for another kind of more earthly initiation but nonetheless relevant for a Scots enthusiast...the Haggis !

Arrivederci

Paolo & Barbara
